

Investment Objective and Strategy

The investment objective of the Fund is to provide long-term capital appreciation by primarily investing in listed equities with a China focus. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objective.

The Fund seeks to achieve its objective primarily through exposure to companies established in China or those which, whilst established outside China, derive a significant proportion of their revenue or profits from business related to China. The Fund makes investments into companies that, in the Manager's opinion, have been undervalued by the market. There is no restriction on market capitalizations or industries in relation to the equity securities in which the Fund may invest.

Under normal circumstances, the asset allocation strategy is that at least 70% of the Fund's Net Asset Value will be invested in stocks of companies established in China or those which, whilst established outside China, derive a significant proportion of their revenue or profits from business related to China (including but not limited to investment in depositary receipts such as American Depositary Receipts), and, subject to an overall upper limit on onshore PRC exposure of 20% of the Fund's Net Asset Value, up to 20% of the Fund's Net Asset Value will be invested directly or indirectly in stocks listed in Shanghai (including stocks listed on the Sci-Tech Innovation Board (the "STAR Board")) and/or Shenzhen (including stocks in the ChiNext market and/or stocks listed on the Small and Medium Enterprise Board (the "SME Board")).

Fund Manager's Comment

The Hong Kong and China markets maintained strong momentum in July, with the ChiNext Index outperforming global benchmarks and advancing 8.1% during the month. Against this backdrop, the U.S. renewed its tariff arrangements with Japan and the UK, raising expectations for potential progress in China–U.S. trade talks toward the end of the month. Meanwhile, the July Politburo meeting reviewed China's economic performance in the first half of 2025 without delivering any major surprises, and the market subsequently experienced a correction.

Sector-wise, bullish sentiment in healthcare and financials—particularly brokers—remained intact. In technology, renewed enthusiasm was driven by the resumption of Nvidia's H20 chip supply and better-than-expected capital expenditure guidance from U.S. hyperscalers, further igniting investor sentiment. Reflecting these trends, we increased our exposure to these sectors, partly funded by reducing positions in more defensive financial names and certain underperforming holdings.

As of this writing, China and the U.S. have agreed to extend trade talks by 90 days. However, there have been no positive policy surprises on the stimulus front from the Chinese government thus far. We believe any potential upside from tariff developments will remain limited in the near term. Instead, we expect market focus to shift toward domestic policy changes and company fundamentals as earnings season unfolds. Technology is likely to remain a key driver for the rest of the year, and we will continue to seek opportunities within the sector. Overall, portfolio exposure has been increased in anticipation of these trends.
